

Contents

List of Illustrations	vii
Introduction. Benjamin Fraser and Steven Spalding	1
Chapter 1. The Railway Arts: Sound and Space beyond Borders Aimée Boutin Appendix: Poems	25 40
Chapter 2. The Sonic Force of the Machine Ensemble: Transnational Objectification in Steve Reich's Different Trains (1988) Benjamin Fraser	46
Chapter 3. A Genealogy of Apocalyptic Trains: Snowpiercer (2013) and Its Precursors in the Transnational Literature of Transport John D. Schwetman	64
Chapter 4. Dangerous Borders: Modernization and the Gothic Mode in Pánico en el Transiberiano (1972) and Howl (2015) Fernando Gabriel Pagnoni Berns and Juan Juvé	84
Chapter 5. Anachronism, Ambivalence, and (Trans)National Self-Reference: Tracking the English Literary Chunnel from 1986 On Heather Joyce	104
Chapter 6. Crossing Borders on and beyond the Train in Joan of Arc of Mongolia (1989) Steven Spalding	128

Chapter 7. The Cosmopolitan Writer: Exploring Representations on the Underground Railways of Buenos Aires and Paris through Julio Cortázar Dhan Zunino Singh	143
Chapter 8. Literary Railway Bazaars: Transnational Discourses of Difference and Nostalgia in Contemporary India Abhishek Chatterjee	162
Chapter 9. Memories of Trains and Trains of Memory: Journeys from Past-Futures to Present-Pasts in El tren de la memoria (2005) Araceli Masterson-Algar	179
Chapter 10. Nord-Sud: The Paris Metro and Transnational Avant-Garde Artistic Mobilities and Movements in Early Twentieth-Century Paris Scott D. Juall	200
Conclusion. Mind the Gap Benjamin Fraser and Steven Spalding	230
Index	235