I wish to thank the Arts and Humanities Research Council for awarding me funded leave in 2006 under its Research Scheme Leave, and for sponsoring a research trip to Italy in October 2005. Thanks to its generous support, I was able to carry out a number of extremely valuable interviews and bring to completion my research, as well as this book.

All the people who agreed to be interviewed and who helped to make the interviews possible are owed special thanks. I did not receive any refusal for an interview, with the exception of Roberto Fiore, former leader of the extreme-right group Terza Posizione and current leader of Forza Nuova. I would like to thank Giano Accame, Adalberto Baldoni, Paolo Bolognesi, Saverio Ferrari, Aldo Gianuli, Manlio Milani, Pier Paolo Pelizzaro, Ferdinando Pincioni, Sandro Provvionato and Guido Salvini, for giving up some of their time to talk to me and in most cases also for giving me access to judicial and/or parliamentary material. My thanks also go to Gabriele Adinolfi, Marcello De Angelis, Stefano Delle Chiaie, Giuseppe Dimitri and Giuseppe Valerio Fioravanti, all of whom agreed to be interviewed on sensitive and even personal matters. Shortly after I interviewed him, on 30 March 2006, Giuseppe Dimitri died in a road accident. To his family, especially to Giano Accame, I offer my sincere condolences. I would also like to thank Roberto Bartali, Annamaria Brunner, Giorgio Cazzaniga, Roberto Chiarini, Sabrina Fantauzzi and Maria Ocello whose assistance proved invaluable in order to contact some of the persons I wished to interview.

For the photo appearing on the front cover, I would like to thank Lucia Clerici and Alessandra Fadini. They took various pictures in December 2006, on the 37th anniversary of the bomb attack carried out in Piazza Fontana, Milan. My thanks also go to Elisabetta Nadalutti for helping to transcribe the interviews, and to Verina Jones for obtaining copies of two articles from the Observer, published in December 1969.

I am indebted to Roger Eatwell, Mark Gilbert, and Berghahn's official reader of the manuscript, Michel Huysseune, for their very helpful comments and advice. The book is of much better quality thanks to their exacting and constructive criticisms. I am, of course, responsible for any remaining weaknesses.

Finally, I wish to thank my husband, David, to whom this book is dedicated, for his constant support and for reading through the manuscript and making linguistic and stylistic corrections.
