NEW SERIES

ANTHROPOLOGY'S ANCESTORS

Edited by Aleksandar Bošković, University of Belgrade; Institute of Archaeology, Belgrade; Max Planck Institute for Social Anthropology, Halle/ Saale

As anthropology developed across geographical, historical, and social boundaries, it was always influenced by works of exceptional scholars who pushed research topics in new and original directions and who can be regarded as important ancestors of the discipline. The aim of this series is to offer introductions to these major figures, whose works constitute landmarks and are essential reading for students of anthropology, but who are also of interest for scholars in the humanities and social sciences more generally. In doing so, it offers important insights into some of the basic questions facing humanity.

Margaret Mead

Paul Shankman, University of Colorado-Boulder

Tracing Mead's career as an ethnographer, as the early voice of public anthropology, and as a public figure, this elegantly written biography links the professional and personal sides of her career. This short volume is an ideal starting point for anyone wanting to learn about, arguably, the most famous anthropologist of the twentieth century.

William Robertson Smith

Aleksandar Bošković, Institute of Archaeology in Belgrade (Serbia)

"This is a clear, well-informed and interesting account of Robertson Smith's central ideas. The theories are set in the context of debates of the day, and their influence on anthropology and bible studies is discussed." · Adam Kuper, London School of Economics

William Robertson Smith's influence on anthropology ranged from his relationship with John Ferguson McLennan, to advising James George Frazer to write about "Totem" and "Taboo" for the Encyclopaedia Britannica that he edited. This biography places a special emphasis on the notes and observations from his travels to Arabia, as well as on his influence on the representatives of the "Myth and Ritual School."

All Tomorrow's Cultures Anthropological Engagements with the Future

Samuel Gerald Collins, Towson University

The first edition of All Tomorrow's Cultures explored the legacy of futures-thinking in anthropology and marked the beginning of a resurgence of interest in anthropological futures. The new edition has been updated to reflect some of the outpouring of work since then, particularly in science and technology studies and in anthropological analyses of indigenous futures.

Tropics of Vienna
Colonial Utopias of the Habsburg Empire
 Ulrich E. Bach, Texas State University

Though not a conventional colonial power, the Austrian Empire had a metropole-periphery structure that shaped its cultural and intellectual life. This book illuminates colonial utopian writing in the work of Roth, Herzl, and others, revealing a shared longing for alternative social and spatial configurations.

Jewish Self-Hate

Theodor Lessing

Translated and annotated by Peter C. Appelbaum, Pennsylvania State University

Introduction by Sander L. Gilman

Afterword by Paul Reitter

Edited by Benton Aronvitz

Theodor Lessing's 1930 book Der Jüdische Selbsthaß has been read as a defense of the Weimar Republic, a platform for anti-Weimar sentiments, an attack on psychoanalysis, and an inspirational personal guide. This new edition makes a seminal text in Jewish thought accessible to English readers for the first time.

Matsutake Worlds explores matsutake mushrooms through the lens of multispecies encounters, to explore the mushroom's success on the world stage. This success cannot be accounted for by any one cultural or economic process—rather, the matsutake has flourished due to many different processes, culminating in the culinary institution we know today.

In Search of Legitimacy

How Outsiders Become Part of the Afro-Brazilian Capoeira Tradition

Lauren Miller Griffith, Hanover College

Every year, young adults from Western nations travel to Brazil to train in the dance/martial art of capoeira. This ethnography uses the concept of apprenticeship pilgrimage—studying with a local master at a historical point of origin—to explore how non-Brazilians learn their art and claim legitimacy within capoeira communities.

Berghahn eBooks

All new Berghahn titles are available simultaneously in print and online editions. Our partnerships offer a range of choices for individuals and libraries alike:

Individual eBooks

Download Berghahn eBooks to your smartphone, tablet, e-reader, or computer, directly from berghahnbooks.com or from select retailers, including Amazon, Apple, Barnes & Noble eBooks.com, Google Play, Kobo, Libri, and Perlego.

Institutional eBooks

Our ebooks are available across libraries worldwide through partnerships that include: Baobab eBooks (Africa), CNPIEC (China), EBSCO, Gardners, JSTOR, Overdrive, and ProQuest Ebook Central (formerly ebrary and EBL). Libraries have a variety of purchase options—perpetual access, short-term loan or subscription—to a wide range of Berghahn eBooks across all our subjects. If an older title is not available from your library supplier, please ask them to request it from us.

Info for Instructors

We offer free and extended digital exam copies. For deciding on books for your current or upcoming semester's class, we provide free digital inspection copies and have also extended the standard review period to 90 days.

Electronic Files for Print-Disabled Students

For accessible file requests you can obtain files at Bookshare.org (US), RNIB Bookshare (UK) or email: productionus@berghahnbooks.com.
