Once Upon a Time is Now A Kalahari Memoir

Megan Biesele, *Friedrich-Alexander University
Erlangen-Nurnberg*

"A superbly written, masterfully grafted and well organized monograph on a central issue in anthropology: the trials and tribulations of ethnographic field work." • Mathias Guenther, Wilfrid Laurier University

Fifty years after her first fieldwork with Ju/'hoan San hunter-gatherers, anthropologist Megan Biesele has written this exceptional memoir based on personal journals she wrote at the time.

The treasure trove of vivid learning experiences and nightly ponderings she found has led to a memoir of rare value to anthropology students and academics as well as to general readers. Her experiences focus on the long-lived healing dance, known to many as the trance dance, and the intricate beliefs, artistry, and social system that support it.

Time Work

Studies of Temporal Agency

Edited by Michael G. Flaherty, University of South Florida, Lotte Meinert, Aarhus University, and Anne Line Dalsgård, Aarhus University
Afterword by Carmen Leccardi

"...an eclectic and enthralling collection of ethnographic studies...[that] is well structured and beautifully written. As the afterword notes, the book almost reads like a novel, with captivating ethnographic stories on themes ranging from the mundane to the spiritual. The variety of cultures covered—from Canada to Brazil to Kyrgyzstan—attests to an important aspect of time work: it's universal. We all need time, and we all need to work on our time." • Contemporary Sociology

Cash Transfers in Context An Anthropological Perspective

Edited by Jean-Pierre Olivier de Sardan, Ecole des Hautes Etudes en Sciences Sociales and Emmanuelle Piccoli, Université Catholique de Louvain

"This is a very interesting study of targeted cash transfers mainly from an anthropological perspective. While, as the authors point out, there is an abundant literature on such transfers (particularly in terms of 'grey' literature) most of this is heavily econometric and top-down rather than providing a more bottom-up perspective....an innovative study which deserves a wide readership both amongst academics and policy makers working in the field." • European Journal of Social Security

Being Bedouin Around Petra Life at a World Heritage Site in the Twenty-First Century

Mikkel Bille, Roskilde University

"This new monograph by Bille deserves to be widely read as a lucid study of tensions between what he identifies as competing 'universalities' – though he also uses the arguably more precise term 'universalisms'... His thoughtful, multi-layered analysis has a broad resonance beyond its ethnographic details and would surely be welcomed in tourism and heritage studies." • JRAI (Journal of the Royal Anthropological Institute)

On the Edges of Whiteness Polish Refugees in British Colonial Africa during and after the Second World War

Jochen Lingelbach, University of Bayreuth

"Lingelbach deserves high praises for this clever book that sets the tone for further inquiries into the place of Polish and other "subaltern whites" in colonial settings. His erudition is commendable, as is his ability to connect social and intellectual issues to broader colonial geopolitics, including the demystification of whiteness and independence of colonies in Africa after World War II... This will be an important book for years to come." • H-Poland

Global Exchanges

Scholarships and Transnational Circulations in the Modern World

Edited by Ludovic Tournès, University of Geneva, and Giles Scott-Smith, Leiden University

"The volume is an exciting invitation for mobility scholars to rethink the place of knowledge mobilities within their work. It also provokes readers to consider the variety of ways in which knowledges travel and the various conceptual and methodological frameworks necessary to study them. I have no doubt that Global Exchanges is a long-awaited and important contribution not only for historians of international relations but also for mobility scholars, sociologists, geographers, and anthropologists alike." • Transfers
