

International Studies in Social History

General Editor: Marcel van der Linden, International Institute of Social History, Amsterdam

Published in Association with the International Institute of Social History, Amsterdam

Published under the auspices of the International Institute of Social History, Amsterdam, this series offers transnational perspectives on labor and working-class history. For a long time, labor historians have been working within national interpretive frameworks. But interest in studies contrasting different national and regional experiences and studying cross-border interactions has been increasing in recent years. This series is designed to act as a forum for these new approaches.

FORTHCOMING

What is Work?

Gender at the Crossroads of Home, Family, and Business from the Early Modern Era to the Present

Edited by Raffaella Sarti, Anna Bellavitis, and Manuela Martini

Every society has a definition of what work is, and isn't. What Is Work? offers a multi-disciplinary overview of work as it applies to the highly gendered realm of household economies, drawing from scholarship on gender history, economic sociology, family history, civil law, and feminist economics.

Laborers and Enslaved Workers

Experiences in Common in the Making of Rio de Janeiro's Working Class, 1850-1920

Marcelo Badaró Mattos
Translated by Renata Meirelles and Frederico Machado de Barros

"This is a fine piece of historical scholarship. Accessibly written and deeply researched." · Henrique Espada Lima, Universidade Federal de Santa Catarina

This volume analyzes the diverse labor arrangements and associative life of Rio's working class, from which emerged the strategies that workers free and unfree pursued against oppression.

The History of Labour Intermediation Institutions and Finding Employment in the Nineteenth and Early Twentieth Centuries

Edited by Sigrid Wadauer, Thomas Buchner, and Alexander Mejstrik

"This collection has the great merit of having chosen an interesting and socio-politically topical theme which, up to now, has been paid little attention by historians." · Sehepunkte

Searching for a job has been an everyday affair in both modern and past societies, and employment a concern for both individuals and institutions. The case studies in this volume investigate job search and placement practices in European countries, Australia, and India in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries.

Bread from the Lion's Mouth Artisans Struggling for a Livelihood in Ottoman Cities

Edited by Suraiya Faroqhi

"This book is an exciting and valuable contribution to the field of Ottoman history in general, and guild studies in particular. The editor's sweeping introductory synthesis alone is an unparalleled round-up of the latest research... this introduction, and the following chapters, broach most if not all the "big questions" relating to the study of guilds and their history." · Pascale Ghazaleh, The American University in Cairo

The authors examine historical changes in the lives of artisans, focusing on the craft organizations (or guilds) that underwent substantial changes over the centuries.

Migration, Settlement and Belonging in Europe, 1500-1930s Comparative Perspectives

Edited by Steven King and Anne Winter

"...a valuable and engaging contribution to historical debates about labor, poverty, relief, and belonging... [The papers] are written by leaders in their fields... and pulled together [by the editors] in an elegant and convincing treatment of the case for such a geographical spread." · Alannah Tomkins, University of Keele

The issues around settlement, belonging, and poor relief have for too long been understood largely from the perspective of England and Wales. This volume offers a pan-European survey that encompasses Switzerland, Prussia, Belgium, the Netherlands, and Britain.

Routes Into the Abyss Coping with Crises in the 1930s

Edited by Helmut Konrad and Wolfgang Maderthaner

"Several essays are truly innovative, and the collection as a whole offers the English reader an overview of the crises of the 1930s from an original comparative global perspective. In some cases, there is no comparable coverage in English for the period and historical literature." · Malachi Hacohen, Duke University

Learning on the Shop Floor

Historical Perspectives on Apprenticeship

Edited by Bert de Munck, Steven L. Kaplan and Hugo Soly

Economic historians tend to see apprenticeship as a purely economic phenomenon, as an 'incomplete contract' in need of legal and institutional enforcement mechanisms. The contributors to this volume have adopted a broader perspective. They regard learning on the shop floor as a complex social and cultural process, to be situated in an ever-changing historical context.
