

CONTENTS

List of Illustrations	vii
Acknowledgements for the German Edition, 2010	x
Acknowledgements for the English Edition	xi
List of Abbreviations	xii
Introduction. ‘Please, God, Keep Me from Writing a Book about Books!’	1
PART I. The Context: Cultural Politics in the Third Reich	7
Chapter 1. Sifting, Destroying, Controlling and Promoting: The Politics of Literature under the Swastika	9
Chapter 2. Bestsellers in a Dark Time: Their History and Readers	33
Chapter 3. Hitler’s and Goebbels’ Bedtime Reading: What Prominent Nazis Liked to Read	50
PART II. The Ten Most Successful Book Types in the Third Reich	69
Chapter 4. On the Foundation of Facts: Popular Non-fiction Works	71
Chapter 5. The Colour of Money: NS Propaganda Texts	94
Chapter 6. Not So Quiet on the Western Front: The Boom of War Books	112
Chapter 7. Laughing through Life, Jolly Volk : Humour and Comedy	132
Chapter 8. From Medical Romance Novels to Science Fiction: The Themes and Authors of Modern Light Literature	146
Chapter 9. Commodifying Authentic People’s Literature: Karl May, Courths-Mahler and the Heroes of Pulp Fiction	164

Chapter 10. Foreign Narrative Fiction: Bestsellers from Abroad	186
Chapter 11. In the Shadow of the Classics: Highbrow Literature	207
Chapter 12. Blood without Soil: The Successes of National (Social)ist Authors	227
Chapter 13. Field Grey Pays Dividends: Reading Fodder for Wartime	245
Conclusion. On the Trail of Bestsellers	259
Appendix. Selected Bestsellers and Their Sales Figures	270
Bibliography	274
Index	283