

CONTENTS

List of Illustrations	vii
Acknowledgments	ix
Part I. Introductions	1
Introduction	3
Günter Bischof and Michael Burri
Chapter 1. Bruno Kreisky and His Times	11
Oliver Rathkolb
Part II. Kreisky and the United States	27
Chapter 2. The Sun King and the Intellectual: Bruno Kreisky, Heinrich Drimmel, and the United States	29
Michael Burri
Chapter 3. The International Media Coverage of Kreisky's Visits to the United States	54
Christoph Beitzl
Part III. Foreign Policy	79
Chapter 4. Kreisky and Austrian Neutrality	81
Paul Luif
Chapter 5. Bruno Kreisky, the Marshall Plan, and the Cancún Summit in October 1981	107
Günter Bischof
Chapter 6. Kreisky and the Arab World: The Relationship Between Kreisky and Arafat	123
Daniel Aschheim

Chapter 7. Austrian Neutrality, Détente, and Kreisky's Involvement in the Arab–Israeli Conflict Steven Verburg	144
Chapter 8. Kreisky, the Soviet Union, and the Road to Helsinki Anna Graf-Steiner	167
Part IV. Domestic Policy	203
Chapter 9. Bruno Kreisky and the Socialist Party Matthew P. Berg	205
Chapter 10. The Kreisky Era in Environmental Terms: On the Social Ecology of the Austrian 1970s Martin Schmid	220
Part V. Kreisky and the Austrian Bicentennial Gift to the University of Minnesota-Twin Cities	249
Chapter 11. Austria's Bicentennial Gift to the United States in 1976: Bruno Kreisky, the Fulbright Program, and the Establishment of the Center for Austrian Studies at the University of Minnesota Lonnie R. Johnson	251
Afterword Günter Bischof and Michael Burri	297
Index	299