

≈ CONTENTS ≈

List of Illustrations	ix
Introduction	1
Gerald A. Fetz and Patricia Herminghouse
Part I. Patterns of Memory: The Trauma of the Forgotten
Chapter 1. “Faraway So Close”: Transcultural Memory as Christa Wolf’s “Last Word”	21
Silke von der Emde
Chapter 2. Who’s Afraid of Christa Wolf or The Overcoat of Dr. Freud: Memory and Its Discontents	34
Martina Kolb
Chapter 3. Fetishism or Working Through? Concerning the Role of Dr. Freud in City of Angels or, The Overcoat of Dr. Freud	62
David Bathrick
Part II. Christa Wolf as a Writer of Time and Her Times
Chapter 4. The Notion of Heimat in Christa Wolf’s Patterns of Childhood	73
Marijke Mulder
Chapter 5. Writing the Self: Literary Vergegenwärtigung in Christa Wolf’s Patterns of Childhood and City of Angels or, The Overcoat of Dr. Freud	85
Mark Lauer
Chapter 6. The Heterochronic Narrative of Christa Wolf	99
Heike Polster
Chapter 7. Subjective Authenticity as Realism: Christa Wolf and Georg Lukács	110
Robert Blankenship

Part III. Christa Wolf in the Public Sphere

- Chapter 8. To Be Recognized Again: Memory, Amnesia, and Sincerity in Christa Wolf 125
Christine Kanz
- Chapter 9. “Was bleibt aber, stiften die Dichter”: Christa Wolf’s Contested Role as Spokesperson for Generations of Readers and Women Writers 136
Janine Ludwig
- Chapter 10. “This Is No Longer My World”: The Multiple Alienations of Christa Wolf 157
Daniela Colombo

Part IV. Illness, Anxiety, and Trauma

- Chapter 11. “To Follow the Trail of Pain”: Coming to Terms with the Past in Christa Wolf’s In the Flesh 171
Deborah Janson
- Chapter 12. Deliberating the “ängstliche Margarete”: Coping with Anxiety in Christa Wolf’s City of Angels or, the Overcoat of Dr. Freud 188
Ivett Rita Guntersdorfer
- Chapter 13. Coming Full Circle: Trauma, Empathy, and Writing in “Change of Perspective” (“Blickwechsel,” 1970) and “August” (2011) 201
Friederike Eigler

Part V. Christa Wolf and the Visual Arts

- Chapter 14. A Woman’s Voice on Screen: Christa Wolf and the Cinema 217
Barton Byg
- Chapter 15. Women at the Edge of a Nervous Breakdown: The Berlin Wall and the Collapse of Female Consciousness in Divided Heaven and Good Bye, Lenin! 232
Susanne Rinner
- Chapter 16. The Impact of Christa Wolf’s Cassandra on Women Artists in East Germany 244
April A. Eisman
- Index 265