

CONTENTS

List of Figures	vii
Acknowledgments	ix
Introduction Norman J.W. Goda and Edward Kissi	1
Part I. Holocaust Universalization in Real Time
Chapter 1. Universalizing the Holocaust in West and East Africa Edward Kissi	21
Chapter 2. Biafra: State-Building, the Holocaust, and International Diplomacy Charlotte Kiechel	41
Chapter 3. Mauritania and the “Events of 1989”: Why Victims Referenced the Holocaust Sidi N’Diaye	60
Chapter 4. Local, Transnational, Universal: Changing Uses of Holocaust Memory through the Visits of Jaika Grossman to Argentina, 1963–1985 Emmanuel Kahan	74
Chapter 5. Universalizing the Holocaust in Argentine Jewish Art Tamara Kohn	89
Part II. The Limits of Holocaust Universalization
Chapter 6. The Perils of Framing the Indian Partition through the Holocaust Anjali Gera Roy	115

Chapter 7. The Rise and Fall of Jews as Christ Figures in Postwar Christian Theology: A Case of Universalizing the Holocaust? Jonathan Elukin	137
Chapter 8. Crimes against Humanity in French Law and Culture from Nuremberg to Barbie: The Law, the Holocaust, and the Limits of Universalization Norman J.W. Goda	146
Chapter 9. “Jerusalem or Babylon?”: Israel and the Universalization of Holocaust Memory during the 1980s Tom Eshed	173
Chapter 10. “Holocaust it Down”: Universalizing the Holocaust in American Film Comedies Nathan Abrams and Michael Lipiner	189
Conclusion. It’s Been Universal All Along: The Holocaust’s Global Contexts Doris L. Bergen	207
Index	233