

Contents

Introduction

An Anthropology of Global Immunization 1

Rebecca Irons, Sahra Gibbon, Joanna Cook and Aaron Parkhurst

Chapter 1.

Exemplifying Public Health? COVID-19, Vaccines and the Making of a Secure 'Jewish State' 19

Ben Kasstan-Dabush

Chapter 2.

Vaccination and Nationalism in the Danish Welfare State 41

Jens Seeberg and Malthe Lehrmann

Chapter 3.

Another Day, Another Dose: 'Good Citizenship' and the COVID-19
Vaccine for Venezuelan Migrants Living with HIV in Bogotá 59

Rebecca Irons

Chapter 4.

A Regulatory State of Exception 75

Andrew Lakoff

Chapter 5.

The Race Against Time: Interrupting HIV Science and the Vaccine
Against COVID-19 88

Susan Levine and Lenore Manderson

Chapter 6.

- Reframing Experimentality, Governing Ambiguity: Official
Discredit of COVID-19 Vaccines in Brazil 109
Rosana Castro, Marko Monteiro and Alberto Urbinatti

Chapter 7.

- Confronting (Mis)Trust in Uncertain Times: Anthropological
Insights into Vaccine Development and Deployment for Emergent
Epidemics in Tanzania and Sierra Leone 133
Luisa Enria and Shelley Lees

Chapter 8.

- Of Needles and Informational Haystacks: Vaccine (Mis)Information
Practices in Dublin, Ireland 148
Dan Nightingale

Afterword

- Samantha Vanderslott* 167

- Index* 173