Contents

Acknowledgments	vii
Introduction. Transition: Conceptual and Comparative History of an Axial Political and Social Concept Pablo Sánchez León and Agustín Cosovschi	1
CHAPTER 1. Between Civil War and Revolution: The Concept of Transition in Spain and Portugal to the Twenty-First Century Pablo Sánchez León	18
CHAPTER 2. The Engineering of a Transition to Democracy in Portugal Rita Luís	44
CHAPTER 3. The Languages of Transition in the Soviet Republics: Interpreting Perestroika in Estonia and Lithuania in 1985–89 Juhan Saharov and Justinas Dementavičius	67
CHAPTER 4. From Peaceful Revolution to the Search for Unity: Semantics of Transition in Germany since 1989 Benno Nietzel and Marcus Böick	92
CHAPTER 5. All Possible Futures: Social Sciences Thinking about Transition in Serbia and Croatia during the 1990s Agustín Cosovschi	117
CHAPTER 6. The Semantics of the Transition to Democracy in Greece and Spain Magda Fytili	139
CHAPTER 7. Legal Doctrine and Liberal Pedagogy: The Concept of "Transition" and Polish Lawyers Michał Stambulski and Jakub Szumski	162

vi Contents

CHAPTER 8. Permanent Transition in Hungary Adam Fabry and Zoltán Pogátsa	185
Concluding Remarks. A Common Semantic Framework for Transitions with Diverse National Conjugations in Southern and Central-Eastern Europe Pablo Sánchez León and Agustín Cosovschi	210
Afterword. Time and Narrativity in "Transition" Augusta Dimou	224
Index	239