

List of Illustrations	ix
Preface	xi
Acknowledgments	xvi
Note on Transliteration and Translation	ixx
Abbreviations	XX
Introduction. "A Sufi is Someone Who Breathes Well": The Ways of the Breathing Hearts	1
1. The Unseen Neighbors and a Dual Apprentice: Silsila, or Drawing the Lines of Transmitting Breath	32
2. "Why Do I Suffer and What Should I Do?": The Desire Lines of Sufi Breathing-Becoming	64
3. Techniques of Transformation: Subtle-Material Bodies in Dhikr and Other (Breathing) Practices	90
4. "There Must Be Something Else": The In-between World of Healing Secular and Religious Suffering	119
5. Participation in the Real: The Healing Power of Breath, Words, and Things	144
6. "The Right-Wing Attacks Our Mosques and Our Muslim Brothers Do Not Consider Us to Be Real Muslims!": The (Anti-)Politics of Breathing Hearts	e 172
Conclusion. Lessons from the Breathing, Wayfaring Hearts	201

4
Contents
Epilogue. Sufi Breathing in the Pandemic Ruins of (Anti-Muslim) Racism	209
Glossary	212
References	215
Index	251