

Contents

List of Illustrations	vii
Foreword	ix
Frank Mecklenburg
Preface	xiv
Gerald Westheimer
Acknowledgments	xvi
Introduction. German-Jewish Studies for the Twenty-First Century	1
Kerry Wallach and Aya Elyada
Part I. From the Early Modern Period to the Nineteenth Century: Families, Texts, and Religious Identities
Chapter 1. Le-Dor va-Dor or Discontinuities? Family Networks and the Transnational Turn in (German-)Jewish Studies	17
Mirjam Thulin
Chapter 2. Old Yiddish Texts in German-Jewish Culture: Diachronic Translation and the (Re)turn to the Past	38
Aya Elyada
Chapter 3. Orthodoxy as a German-Jewish Legacy	58
Joshua Shanes
Part II. Nation, Belonging, and Communities in the Early Twentieth Century
Chapter 4. Contested Contextualizations: Relating German-Jewish History to the History of Colonialism	79
Stefan Vogt
Chapter 5. The Place of Yiddish in German-Jewish Studies	101
Nick Block

Chapter 6. Metaphysik der Gottferne: Negativity, Intellectual Communities, and German-Jewish Studies Matthew Handelman	119
Part III. Migration, Exile, and Diaspora in the 1930s and Beyond
Chapter 7. Art without Borders: Artist Rahel Szalit-Marcus and Jewish Visual Culture Kerry Wallach	149
Chapter 8. Woman, Scientist, and Jew: The Forced Migration of Berta Ottenstein Stefanie Mahrer	171
Chapter 9. A Global Network and Diaspora of German-Jewish Historians and Archives: Reappraising the Enduring Legacy of German Jewry Jason Lustig	189
Part IV. After 1945: Memory, Coming to Terms with the Past, Place, and Displacement
Chapter 10 Jewish Mourning in the Aftermath of the Holocaust: Tending Individual Graves in Occupied Germany, 1945–49 Stefanie Fischer	211
Chapter 11. German-Jewish Fiction on the Holocaust: The Ethics of Narrative Causality in Edgar Hilsenrath’s Disfigured Narration Corey L. Twitchell	229
Chapter 12. (Un-)Jewish Musical Spaces in Munich: Past and Present Tina Frühauf	248
Epilogue. The Dynamic Relationship of “German” and “Jewish” Michael A. Meyer	269
Index	279